Evening Keynote, Preet Banerjee

Personal Finance Expert | Host of Million Dollar Neighbourhood

Why We Are Literally Hard-Wired to Make Bad Decisions About Money – and What You Can Do About It!

Banerjee will explain the evolutionary and psychological basis for why human beings are just not designed to make good decisions about money. But more importantly, he will provide you with multiple action plans you can put in place right now to optimize your financial life.

Originally trained as a neuroscientist and following a brief stint as an aspiring race car driver, Banerjee now excels within the world of finance. Best known as a financial panelist on CBC's The National and as a contributor to The Morning Show on Global, he inspires others to become financially empowered through his world-class expertise and unique ability to take the complexity out of money matters.

Morning Keynote, Melissa Leong

Personal Finance Expert | Media Personality | Bestselling Author

How to be Financially Happier, Stronger and More Resilient: Lessons from the Pandemic

The pandemic forced all of us to consider our health — not just our physical health, but our financial health, too. After everything we've been through, how can we emerge financially happier, stronger and more resilient? Money author Melissa Leong says when it comes to our money, we have a lot to gain from our pandemic experience. Sharing wisdom and heart-warming anecdotes from her personal pandemic journey, Melissa distills her learnings into critical lessons — the keys to unlocking financial happiness and giving us the tools we need to not only stay afloat, but to thrive, during the next unexpected storm.

As one of Canada's best-loved authorities on personal finance, Leong is a sought-after speaker, national media personality, bestselling author, and award-winning writer, and the resident money expert on CTV's The Social, Canada's leading daytime talk show. Be inspired by her informative and practical keynote about behavioural economics, positive psychology, and personal finance, in her signature frank and funny style.
